Parent Inclusion Network (PIN)

PIN is a grass-roots initiative run by families who are committed to building welcoming and inclusive communities in the Cayman Islands, and supporting each other to navigate an inclusive life.

By joining PIN, you can be a pivotal voice in determining the action we all need to take to change the exclusion your children currently face, identifying barriers and working together to promote solutions that allow ALL individuals to access an inclusive life.

Current work: Supporting families in their discussions about barriers to inclusion with MLA's in order to dismantle them, and push improved policy creation forward. This can be done in whatever capacity of support a family would like us to provide alongside them.

Youth for Inclusion

Comprised of members aged 16-22, the Youth Inclusion program empowers young people with and without disabilities in creating social change throughout their community. By attending workshops and events, this collective is striving to make the Cayman Islands a more inclusive place. These individuals are committed to the cause and share a passion for social change.

To date we've had 21 people attend our monthly meetings. This collective passionate youths is comprised of a diverse mix of Caymanian and expatriate students from both the private and Government school sectors.
